

the local doctor.

Dr. Macbell is a dedicated general practitioner with a special focus on the diagnosis and management of adult ADHD and skin cancer.

With expertise in adult ADHD, Dr. Macbell offers comprehensive, personalised care to help patients manage their condition effectively. He ensures that each patient receives a thorough assessment and a tailored care plan, providing ongoing support throughout their treatment, including carefully supervised medication management for optimal outcomes.

Dr. Macbell's approach begins with a comprehensive assessment, leading to a personalised care plan. He closely monitors medication prescriptions, ensuring safety and effectiveness, while coordinating care with other health professionals when necessary. His holistic approach promotes balanced well-being by addressing both physical and mental health for an integrated care experience.

In addition to his ADHD expertise, Dr. Macbell is a distinguished member of the Skin Cancer College of Australasia (SCCA) and the American Academy of Aesthetic Medicine (AAA). He specialises in skin cancer management, with advanced training in early detection, diagnosis, and treatment. His comprehensive approach to healthcare also includes extensive experience in general practice, emergency medicine, and aged care services.

Beyond clinical work, Dr. Macbell mentors medical students and newly graduates from both Monash University and Melbourne University. In his leisure time, Allen enjoys exploring wineries, swimming, and playing tennis, promoting both physical vitality and mental focus.
