

Dr Annu is a Monash University graduate who obtained her GP fellowship in 2015. Dr Annu enjoys all aspects of general practice, with special interest in women's health, contraception, pregnancy choices, and menopause management. Dr Annu inserts and removes both IUDs and Implanon and assists with iron infusions. She also enjoys getting to know her patients and providing long-term, thorough, and comprehensive care, as well as managing chronic diseases. Travel medicine is another area of interest for Dr Annu, and she is an accredited provider of the yellow fever vaccine.

Dr Annu has three school-aged children, and in her admittedly limited free time, she enjoys running (slowly and over short distances), gardening, listening to audiobooks, attending to her indoor plants, and savouring good coffee.
